Doors of Exposition Opened Tomorrow

The Monterey Exposition will be officially opened on Sept. 1st by the mayors of Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey A division of destroyers has been ordered to Monterey Bay for this week-end and a big entertainment lined up. Special arrangements are being made to entertain the crews of the destroyers, and if arrangements can be made in time, the navy boys will take part in a number of the sporting events which are to be featured

There will be a beautiful illumination with Japanese lanterns of the fishing boats in the harbor and it is expected that the naval boats will also be decorated and illuminated.

Carmel's candidate for Queen of the Spanish Fiesta Day is Constance Heron. She is the daughter of Herbert Heron, proprietor of "The Seven Arts." Her mother, Opal Heron, is a musician of well known ability. Constance has spent the greater part of her life in Carmel and all of our residents should boost "Our Girl." She is in her third year in High School and has appeared often in dramatics both here and in Monterey. Votes may be purchased at any of the Carmel shops. Ray De Yoe is handling the campaign here and any one wanting further information may get it by phoning to him.

Happiness at "Bluebird"

Very distinctive was Mrs. C. S. Stanton's tea at the Blue Bird Sunday afternoon. The guest of honor was Miss Doria Fernanda, famous grand opera star. She has a repertoire of thirty operas and has mastered four languages. Miss Fernanda is peculiarly gifted, not only in her voice, which is a rich contralto but in a rare charm, beauty and intelligence. She gave very generously many musical numbers, with a warmth of feeling and a vivacity of expression that gave her audience much additional pleasure. Mabel Gray Young was a most sympathetic accompanist.

Herbert Heron read some choice bits from Masefield, George Sterling and Mary Austin. Laura Dierrsen gave some interesting solos very effectively, and Mary Austin talked informally on the Indian contribution to the "American Rhythm."

During the tea hour, the awnings at the windows were lifted and a beautiful sunset lent an additional glory to the affair. It failed however to outrival the sweet and gracious personality of the hostess, who provided so interesting an entertainment that the guests prolonged the tea hour until almost midnight.

Unscrambling Municipal Entanglements

IT is what the Board of Trustees did in reseating William L. Maxwell as a Trustee, and what they have not done in the drainage matter that has torn our fair city into shreds during the past week.

To be sure, many are not recognizing the fact that the storm drainage and the legality of Captain Maxwell's seat on the board are separate and distinct problems. Personalities are entering into the strife, and the feud bids fair to rack us further in endless bickering, possible litigation and a definite and distinct line of partisan affiliation.

It would seem well at this stage to count a hundred—and then talk; to cultivate a cold judicial frame of mind; to look at both questions purely from the official records of the cases: to forget what this or that one has said or done, or what this or that one has done to him or to his supporters. It is so easy to twist the truth—to distort and imag ne—to get an unkind or unjust perspective.

In an endeavor to place the two problems fairly, squarely, judicially, for the public comprehension, it has been thought best to give a general history, a sort of summing-up, of the two questions, the matter taken from the official records and the Pine Cone files. An intelligent public may m•ke out of it what they wish—they may decide for themselves without any unnecessary influences being brought to bear on the question.

We heartily endorse the opinion of the editor of the Century Magazine, when he says:

> "As a reader I resent an editor's attempting to quarantine me against minority opinion. I do not want an editor to decide what is 'good' for me. It is now the function of magazine editors, in my judgment, to act as nursemaids to the minds of their readers. . . . A truly national magazine should mirror our day, not simply highly selected parts of our day."

Drainage Matter

On July 25, at a meeting of the City Fathers, a number of residents on Ninth, Twelfth and San Antonio attended to enter protests against certain conditions included in the plans and specifications. It was charged particularly that the surface drainage was being inadequately handled and that if the provisions for culverts was carried out, the rains would do much damage to public and to private property. The Board decided to defer action until the next meeting at which time the City Engineer Severance and City Planning Commissioner Alfred E. Burton would be present.

At the next regular meeting of the Board there was further discussion and they decided to abandon the proceeding until a satisfactory method of handling the drainage could be devised.

At a meeting on August 11, which was again attended by a large number of property owners, Trustee Newberry stated that the Board was willing to cooperate when the property owners themselves could agree on some plan.

The property owners got together on the following Monday night at the City Hall, Alfred E. Burton presiding. They adopted, almost unanimously the following propositions as devised by City Engineer Severance and Dr. A. E. Burton:

1st. An underground system of catch basins, culverts and storm sewers running down the East and West streets to the sea.

2nd. The formation of a drainage district to be the water shed from San Carlos to the sea and from Ocean Avenue to 13th.

3rd. A direct assessment of lots in the district equally, on the basis of a 40x100 foot lot.

Dr. Burton and H. D. Severance assured those present that the plan had often been tried out in similar conditions, that it was a simple engineering problem and that if new roads were built they would increase water damages to property, unless adequate

Maxwell Affair

At the last city spring election, Captain William L. Maxwell, Perry Newberry and Helen Parkes were elected to be Trustees of the City of Carmel. William T. Kibbler was re-elected and T. B. Reardon held over. Toward the end of May, Captain Maxwell applied for and received a leave of absence, allowing ninety days from the city and sixty days from the state.

Before his leave had expired, he telegraphed the board asking for an extension of time. The application was read at the board meeting the night before his leave from the state was supposed to expire. Trustee Parkes moved that he be granted further leave, but neither Trustees Reardon nor Kibbler seconding the motion, no action could be taken.

At that time, Chairman Newberry stated that his reasons for wishing to grant the request for additional leave were:

That at the time of Captain Maxwell's departure no complaint or charges had been brought against him for any reasons whatever.

That he had been elected by the largest majority polled by any of the successful candidates;

That his absence had been spent in governmental service;

That he evidently wished to resume his duties shortly as a Trustee of the City of Carmel;.

That his leave of absence from the City had not yet expired, but was about to expire as far as his absence from the state was concerned.

A few days after the expiration of the time limit for absence from the State, Captain Maxwell arrived in Carmel, having given up his position in the East and going to heavy personal expense in an effort to get here and resume his duties at the earliest possible moment.

There immediately began to be a diversified sentiment in the town as to the legality or illegality of Maxwell's positon on the board, Chairman Newberry stating that he honestly believed that he was entitled to

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

REVIEW OF BOOKS IN CARMEL LIBRARY

By Ann Burroughs

THE AMERICANIZATION OF EDWARD BOK

It would be out of place for these columns to publish at this time a critical review of a book which has given such uniform enjoyment to a large American audience for over a year as has Mr. Bok's autobiography. But these columns may be doing a service in making known to those not yet aware that our library has the volume on its shelves.

It is amusing that the generation which has relegated to the shelves of the scorned and uninteresting classic and furthermore has branded as smug and filled with expediences rather than honesties such a volume as Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography should place on its list of best sellers this autobiography of Franklin's spiritual and commercial successor, Edward Bok.

Edward Bok is as sly, as cunning, as pleased with himself, as devoid of a sense of humor as was Franklin; as able to make the other person, be he president or artist of international fame, do his bidding willy nilly as was Franklin even in his dealings with royalty; and both were equally successful during their generations in remaking most of America after their own patterns.

One wonders what the next move will be of this modern Franklin who has resigned his day's work at fifty-six. Twice declining the diplomatic post at The Netherlands would seem to indicate that he would not follow in Franklin's ministerial steps. Is the admission prophetic on the earlier pages of the volume that the author would like to be president. One trusts for the prosperity of the country and the entertainment of the spectacle that it may be. In that position Mr. Bok would not follow a glowing ideal to a disastrous bog as has Mr. Wilson. He would rig the nation true to the best that is in the average American and keep it there. For greater things, he would trust to America's innate respect for the ideal, to which he pays such handsome tribute in his closing chapter, to keep the heart of the country alert to the call of the next man with vision greater than the average man whom it may be our blessing to possess.

A MODERN MERRY INTERLUDE

I am that cunning infidel
By men called Chance—you know me well.
It is through me you met your wives;
Through me your harvest blights or thrives;
And one and all, through me, today
Hither you came to see the play,
Which if your favor still you lend,
As now, so on until the end,
You shall be taught what way a King,
Though a sublime and awful thing
And even wise, may come to be
A laughing stock—and all through me!

says the hero of "A Merry Interlude," by Edna St. Vincent Millay, written for Vassar presentation. The plot bounds along rollickingly and quaintly with its abstract characters full of the buxom boisterousness of the sixteenth century interludes. The like of these interludes has not been approached in charm, delicacy and merriment since their glory paled before the glamor of mighty Elizabethan drama. Only a developed Punch and Judy, relic of an entertainment which was twin sister of the interlude, remains to suggest the hearty audiences of merry England which called into existence scores of such plays and folk dramas.

Miss Millay's interlude just misses this note of heartiness, but it attains a full measure of quaintness and jollity, both in its conception and rhythm—even from the first lines:

I am the King of all this land:
I hold a scepter in my hand;
Upon my head I wear a crown;
Everybody stands when I sit down.

The plot follows suit. Chance, the rogue-villain, the slap-stick hero, discovers the King in search of the neatest woman in the realm for his wife. Chance, acting in the capacity of his name and position, causes the tidiest woman in the realm to meet, on that day, with a disfiguring accident; and the greatest slattern, on the same day, to clean up her person and her house by reason of having nothing else to do. The King acts on impulse and immediately marries the apparently neatest woman. Too late he cries:

Oh, cock's bones! And strike me dead!
Is it a slut that I have wed?

To which Chance makes the curtain bow to the play with

Now that the play is at an end,
By Chance you have enjoyed it, friend;
By Chance to you his sweet is gall;
By Chance you slumbered through it all.
Howe'er it be, it was by Chance
The King was led so merry a dance,
By Chance that Tidy met disgrace,
By Chance alone Slut washed her face;
From morn to eve the whole day long
It was by Chance that things went wrong.
Wherefore, good friends, t'escape derision,
Be not o'er hasty in your decision,
For he who heedeth not this rule
By Chance he Will be Called a Fool!

Amalgamation of Little Theater and Forest Theater Is Latest Proposal

By PERRY NEWBERRY

As summer wanes, the Little Theater idea comes timidly forward and asks Carmel's consideration.

Within this town are many people interested in dramatics, and they are asking for housing accommodations. They want a better stage and a larger auditorium. They are willing to work to secure what they want. But they are temperamental, as are the artistic, and will not be bound with financial ropes.

Consequently, the Little Theater idea remains an idea. Finance has no artistic temperament. Its laws are set and stern. Interest and principal are facts, not imagination. Any organization which includes business in its make-up, must consider cost, expense, up-keep, interest, insurance, and both sides of the ledger page. Can a Little Theater be made self-supporting? If not, can deficits be met?

Another serious problem to consider is whether a Little Theater could be operated without demoralizing conflict by any organization in Carmel. Would it not disrupt the organization, rather than increase its usefulness? There is no doubt that many of the battles of Carmel have been fought over the drama. They have been hotly contested, and have led to bitternesses and animosities. Would any club or society be safe in bringing this element of discord inside its doors?

I am going to propose as an answer to both of these problems that the Forest Theatre Society build and own the Little Theatre of Carmel. Discord and conflict are the daily food upon which it thrives. It can—and does—disagree thoroughly with everything, yet goes ahead year after year putting things across that are worth doing. Its differences of opinion are matters of taste, intelligence, judgment, and battles on such lines, while they can be just as bitter, are productive of experimental effort that often produces great results.

I say, let Carmel have a single No Man's Land and place all the barbed-wire entanglements and muddy trenches of the War of the Drama inside it; and let that battle-ground be the Forest Theatre Society.

As to the other problem, the financial issue, I believe the Forest Theatre Society can build a Little Theatre back of its outdoor stage, attached to it, which would make use of the lighting arrangements, the stage structure, the entire apparatus of the outdoor stage, and build it cheaper than anywhere else in town, also operate it with less expense. In summer, this building would serve as a clubhouse, dressing rooms, etc. In winter it would be a theatre and keep alive a year-around interest in Forest theatre affairs. The financing of it would be helped by the summer dramatic activities; just as their financing would be benefited by the winter plays.

I hear at once the objection of too far from the center of town for wintry nights. I reply by pointing to the many automobiles now in Carmel; the rapid growth of this part of town; and the fact that it is but five short blocks from the post office after all. A good gravel path to it would bring it right into town.

The Forest Theatre Society has now invested in its plant, stage, seats, lighting, sets and props, not considering the land value, approximately $2500. I suggest putting $3500 more into a theater building, using the seats and lighting apparatus of the plant for it. The annual meeting of the society is but a few weeks ahead. This will give its members an opportunity to think over the suggestion, discuss it, and drag up the heavy artillery ready for a barrage at the meeting.

Ordinance Amendment

Carmel Sanitary District

Be it resolved, that Section 13 of Ordinance No. 4 of the Carmel Sanitary Board be amended to read as follows:

Section 13. All drains to the outside of the building and to the street sewer, or cesspool, shall be first grade vitrified ironstone or cast iron sewer pipe, internal diameter not less than four inches. Stoneware piping shall not be allowed within ten feet of the exterior wall of the building, neither shall any vitrified pipe come within twelve inches of the top of the ground in its entire course. The jointing of each and every section of vitrified piping must be completely and uniformly filled with the best Portland cement, two parts cement and one part sand, and every joint thoroughly cleaned from the inside, so as not to form an obstruction. The different sections must be laid in perfect line on the bottom and sides with a fall of not less than one quarter of an inch per foot toward the street sewer or cesspool. This piping must be made perfectly water-tight. It shall not be covered or connected in any way until it has been properly inspected and approved by the inspector. All changes in direction shall be made with curves or Y branches; all connections with Y branches of ⅛ bends.

Passed and adopted Friday, August 4th, 1922, by the following vote:

Ayes: R. F. Gillett, W. T. Dummage, H. W. Askew, L. E. Payne.

Noes: None.

AMERICAN and EUROPEAN PLAN

provision was made for carrying the water in surface channels to the sea. C. H. Yates was appointed chairman of a committee to make a comprehensive report of the plan to the Board at the next meeting.

On the following Wednesday evening the Board met again to listen to the results of the property-owners' meeting. Mr. Yates made a report, outlining the above plan. Chairman Newberry stated that he would not oppose the plan if he were convinced that a majority of the resident owners in that district favored it.

Before the time set for a final hearing of the case on August 23 petitions were circulated and C. N. Yates, upon presenting the petition claimed a working majority for the proponents of the plan. Trustee Newberry stated then that the city would be put to much expense should the plan be started and not carried out. At that, Engineer Severance and Attorney Campbell volunteered to take the case purely on a contingent fee. At this same meeting, a petition was received signed by a number of property owners in the same district asking that the matter be delayed until the petitioners had made further investigation.

Trustee Parkes moved that the Street Commissioner, William L. Maxwell, check up the results and report on the matter at the next regular meeting of the Board which will be September 5.

Some of the negative arguments to the proposition are:

That the district between Santa Lucia and Thirteenth should have been included.

That the town is not ready nor the time ripe for so extensive a drainage system.

That the plan should be tried first on one or two of the other streets only.

That the plan of equal assessment is unfair and that the assessment should be levied in proportion to the benefits derived or according to assessed valuation.

That it would take the entire time of one man to attend to the sewers and keep them free from pine needles and other debris.

Those favoring the proposition argue:

That the problem is the same in all lots—that of getting rid of the excess water in such a way as will do the least amount of damage to other property. This point is based upon the supposition that the rain falls equally on every lot, "the just and the unjust," and that those at the bottom of the hill are suffering, not from the water that falls on their property but from the accumulated water from other parts of the town.

That there is no necessity for experimentation or delay, two competent engineers having passed on the plan and declared it practical.

That to insure permanent roads it is necessary to establish an adequate drainage system first, instead of spending money on roads and then continuing indefinitely to spend more patching them up hold his office.

When the drainage problem came up, adherents of the plan feared that if Maxwell's status on the Board was not established, any action taken might invalidate the proceedings having to do with contemplated drainage and road work. At a meeting of the trustees and property owners a motion was made, seconded and lost that City Attorney Argyll Campbell be asked for an opinion in the matter. Chairman Newberry stated that it was not the time or place for such an action; that it was a matter purely for the board of trustees to settle, and those wishing to get Mr. Campbell's personal opinion on the question at issue were at liberty to do so. Mr. Campbell stated to several individuals that although there were some fine technical points involved and that although the law relating to the case was poorly drawn, it was his opinion that the office was vacant.

Several citizens then secured a legal opinon from a Salinas attorney, who concurred with Mr. Campbell. It is understood, however, that others consulted a Monterey attorney who gave it as his opinion that there was no vacancy.

At a meeting held last Thursday evening at which a tax ordinance was to receive its first reading, only Trustees Newberry, Parkes and Maxwell were present, and as there was a question regarding the legality of Maxwell's seat on the board, and as it was necessary to give the tax ordinance attention, the meeting was adjourned until Friday night when an unquestioned quorum might be secured.

On Friday evening the only trustees answering rollcall were Newberry and Parkes, and the former stated that there being no quorum present and there being important business to come up, it would be necessary to secure another member. Trustee Reardon was reported ill in San Jose and Trustee Maxwell was reported also out of town, so the Clerk was directed to serve notice on Trustee Kibbler to attend the meeting. Chairman Newberry stated that if Mr. Kibbler were ill the board would be willing to meet at his home. Marshal Englund returned with the message that Kibbler was indisposed but willing for the board to meet at his home.

As the board adjourned to the home of Mr. Kibbler Attorney Campbell stated that it was to be a public meeting and that any one had a right to attend. Arriving at the home of Mr. Kibbler, the chairman first inquired if Mr. Kibbler was willing to waive any objections to the meeting-place, to which he replied in the affirmative. The meeting was called to order and the roll was called. Minutes of former meetings were read and minor corrections made, and the ordinance establishing the tax rate was given first hearing.

Trustee Newberry then called Trustee Parkes to the chair. He then moved that Trustee Maxwell's office be declared vacant and that William L. Maxwell be appointed as trustee to fill the term prescribed by law for that office. Newberry then resumed the chair and put the question. The "Ayes" were Newberry and Parkes, Kibbler voting "No."

Kibbler questioned the fairness of the act to Reardan who was out of town through illness, and Newberry stated he was doing it for the best interests of the town and saving it the expense of litigation and much further strife.

Going to Jerusalem

We used to play it when we were children. The game required a certain number of chairs. Any number could play, providing there was one chair less than the number of players. The game was played to music and when the music stopped every player who could, grabbed a chair and the one who was left without any, paid the forfeit.

Last Friday night at Mr. Kibbler's residence two members of our City Council, Mr. Newberry and Miss Parkes gave us a new version of the game. They had only one chair, but they sat in it in turns, and when they stopped playing Mr. Maxwell was reinstated in an office which Mr. Newberry asserts was always legally his, although for the sake of the game it was declared vacant at this meeting. We recall an earlier meeting of the City Council at which the property owners asked for an expression of opinion from the City Attorney as to the legality of Mr. Maxwell's place upon the Council, when Mr. Maxwell, Mr. Newberry and Miss Parkes voted against that expression of opinion, which action was protested by one of the property holders present and the protest entered upon the minutes of the meeting.

Mr. Campbell, our City Attorney, assures us that the game was legally played. Mr. Kibbler protested that it was most unfair. Notice of this meeting of the Councilmen stated that the meeting was to be held "for the purpose of considering and acting upon the equalization of taxes in said city and an ordinance fixing the tax rate in said city for the fiscal year, beginning January 1, 1922, and for such other matters as may properly come before it." To accomplish this necessary piece of public business Mr. Kibbler, although ill and unable to attend the meeting when first called to the City Hall, consented to waive his rights as to the place of meeting and to allow the meeting to

Kibbler States What Happened in the Night

Friday Evening, August 25, 1922.

The Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea met at an adjourned meeting for the understood purpose of fixing the tax rate for the year, as stated in the notice sent out by President Newberry to the members of the board.

Only two members of the board—President Newberry and Trustee Parkes—were present, owing to the illness of Trustee Kibbler and the absence from town of Trustee Maxwell (the legality of whose office has been questioned), and the illness of Trustee Reardon, who is confined to the house at San Jose.

The two members then served notice on Trustee Kibbler to appear at the City Hall forthwith, or, if agreeable, they would come down to his house, but as Trustee Kibbler was unable to go to the Hall, the meeting was removed to his residence.

Trustee Kibbler was asked to waive his rights to having the meeting at the City Hall, which he did.

The meeting was then called to order and the tax rate fixed.

President Newberry at once turned the chair over to Trustee Parkes, and moved that the office of Trustee Maxwell be declared vacant.

He then resumed the chair, and Trustee Parkes seconded the motion.

The roll was called, and the motion carried.

President Newberry then again turned the chair over to Trustee Parkes and moved,

That Mr. W. L. Maxwell be appointed to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

He then resumed the chair, and Trustee Parkes seconded the motion.

On a roll call the motion was carried. Trustee Kibbler protested that it was not fair to Trustee Reardon, who was confined to his bed in San Jose, and voted "no."

The above is a true statement of the proceedings at this meeting.

(Signed) WILLIAM T. KIBBLER.

LATE ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. William Watts, who have been traveling in the Orient since last December, are expected home early next December. They are now in Japan.

A recent visitor in Carmel was Miss Grace Atherton Dennen of Los Angeles, editor of "Lyric West," the only far Western magazine devoted entirely to poetry.

Robert Welles Ritchie is leaving Carmel for Seattle and other points north on a special assignment from "The Country Gentleman." Mr. Ritchie has been a regular resident of Carmel for [illegible] time. He is a novelist, short story writer and newspaper man. His best known novel is "The Trail to Two Moons."

be held in his own home, Mr. Maxwell being absent from town and Mr. Reardon being ill and confined to the house in San Jose.

Those of us who remained at the City Hall to learn the outcome of the meeting were there to receive the two jubilant councilmen who had so successfully made the trip to Jerusalem upon their safe return therefrom.

Congratulations were few. The feeling is growing among large numbers of Carmel property holders that with this precedent established, our new plan for storm drainage, the paving of our streets, in fact all necessary improvements will presently make the trip to Jerusalem also or to some other place equally unsatisfactory and never again appear in Carmel during the term of the present board.

The reason given by Mr. Newberry for the proceedings of Friday evening is that by thus reinstating Mr. Maxwell, whom he declares never to have been out of office, Carmel has been saved trouble and expense of a lawsuit. I wonder, and a number of other people are wondering too.

MAUDE ISABEL HOGLE.

August 26, 1922.

Disclaims Trickery

Intimations are being made that a trick was hidden away in last Friday night's Council meeting; that underhand work was done somewhere, and that I acted in an unethical manner. It has been stated that I am a shrewd old-time politician, and that I "put one over" on my old friend Wm. T. Kibbler.

Nothing is farther from the facts. Although I did politics in San Francisco with Francis J. Heney, Rudolph Spreckles and Wm. J. Burns during the long fight against Abe Ruef's corrupt machine, I never gained the distinction of being particularly smooth; I take my hat off any day to Trustee Kibbler as a politician; and I have never seen the time when I had cleverness enough to catch him napping and "put one over" on him.

At a meeting last Thursday night, where some forty or fifty citizens were present, the Council adjourned to Friday night. Openly, even noisily. Kibbler wasn't there, to be sure, and Reardon was sick in San Jose. So as president of the Board, I got out notices, had one telegraphed to Reardon in San Jose, and had one served on Kibbler at about four o'clock Friday afternoon. In that notice was stated the objects of the meeting, fixing the tax levy, "and for such such other business as may properly come before it."

Certainly the question of a vacancy which Kibbler claimed existed in the Council, because Maxwell had been absent 68 days from the state, was "business" that might "properly come before it." It was business that he had been trying to get before the Council. And when Kibbler failed to show up at the City Hall on Friday night, with no reason or excuse sent to explain his absence, it was fair for me to assume that he was keeping away from that meeting to prevent the Council obtaining a quorum; especially as I had seen him down-town, apparently well, but a few hours before.

The law provides a way to enforce a quorum. It is a wise law, for otherwise a reluctant minority might make it extremely difficult for a city to transact its business. Trustee Parkes and I used that law, serving notice on Kibbler to present himself forthwith at the City Hall. That Kibbler might not be harmed by the night air, if ill, I sent a verbal message by the Marshall, that the Council would meet at his residence if he preferred.

He sent back word that he would prefer. All of this business at the City Hall was openly done. Everyone in the room heard it, knew just what we were doing. I didn't lower my voice at all and my voice is distinct. We adjourned to meet at Kibbler's house quite openly. One citizen at the Hall was displeased because I did not invite her to go. I invited nobody to go. It is not required of me to invite people to public meetings of the Board of Trustees. Invitations are unnecessary when your trustees meet. Come always when you can.

There was the same freedom from trickery at the meeting at Kibbler's house. He was asked to waive objection to the meeting being held there instead of at the City Hall. He waived it. The roll was called. A quorum was present. Minutes were read. The tax-levy had its first reading. All was in order, all was open and aboveboard so far, certainly.

Then I called Trustee Parkes to the chair and made a motion that has led to these intimations of chicanery and deceit. I said that a question had arisen as to the legality of Maxwell's seat, that its adjudication might mean long and expensive litigation, that the city would be hampered in the meantime; and I moved that Maxwell's seat be declared vacant, and he be reappointed to fill the vacancy.

Certainly nothing tricky in that motion. Trustee Kibbler understood it perfectly, I could tell by his face. As I resumed the chair and called for a second to the motion, I hoped to hear him clarify all entanglements by a hearty support. Trustee Parkes, too, waited to give him opportunity, then herself seconded it. The Clerk called the roll. The vote was ayes, two; noes, one. It was carried.

That is all about it. Don't let anyone get mixed up with extraneous matters, surface-drainage, or my past political history. They have nothing to do with the case. I tell you that there was no trickery, chicanery, skulkduggery, or improper politics in the matter on anyone's part, whether agreeing with me or against me. There is no one on the Board of Trustees in Carmel who does business that way.

Dr. John McGee of the Carnegie Institute has left for Cheyenne, Wyo., where his marriage to Miss Louise Lacey will take place. McGee has been in Carmel for several years, coming here from the University of California, where he received his Ph. D. Miss Lacey is a graduate of Gowcher college in Baltimore. Returning here, they will reside in the Eighty Acres in the house formerly occupied by the Pinkertons.

Most potent is the smell of printers' ink to one of the profession. Will Gilstrap, editor of the "San Gabriel Sun," made a call on the Pine Cone family a few days ago. He and his wife are spending some time this month in Carmel. The son, Fred Gilstrap, is a student in the southern branch of the University of California, and Miss Cosby, the daughter, occupies the position of School Librarian in Pasadena, where she supervises the work of twenty-three elementary schools.

Dr. Frank Lawrence Riley and son Roy of Los Angeles were guests recently with Grant Wallace. Dr. Riley is an eminent scientist, being the one national lecturer for the Theosophical and New Thought societies, and is also an authority on psycho-analysis. He is at present making interesting experiments on the correlation of color, form and sound through vibration, and shows how, through vibration, the most wonderful forms can be produced. Perhaps he has accomplished more than any other man in this direction. He has done much research work in London as well as in America.

The local laboratory of the Carnegie Intitution of Washington, D. C. has had a number of distinguished visitors recently among them Miss Seiler, of the department of physics of the University of Illinois; Dr. B. W. Everman, director of the California Academy of Sciences, and Professor O. P. Jenkins, formerly of Stanford University.

Mary Austin has done a great deal of writing since coming to Carmel about a month ago. Besides an article on "The Land of Joyous Adventure" for The Nation, she has completed her latest book, "The American Rhythm." It deals with the beginning of Indian civilization—with their dancing, decorative art and rhythm—and the return of the impetus produced by our aborigines, to the modern class consciousness. Mrs. Austin will shortly deliver a lecture before the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Santa Fe. She will winter in New York.

This is the last week of the local movies three nights a week. Beginning next Tuesday, Paramount Pictures will be shown Tuesdays and Saturday.

Dr. Richard Clarke Cabot and his wife, Olla Lyman Cabot, were recent visitors in Carmel. Dr. Cabot has been a practicing physician in Boston, a lecturer in several prominent eastern colleges and is the author of several medical treatises. Mrs Cabot is a graduate of Radcliffe and has taken courses in logic and metaphysics at Harvard. She is prominent in school councils and women's clubs and is the author of several books on school subjects and ethics.

Vernon Kellogg left recently after a vacation spent at Lake Tahoe and Carmel, for Washington, where he holds an important post in the National Bureau of Research. His wife, Charlotte Kellogg, will remain here for some time longer. She is at present translating Madame Curie's biography of her husband, the discoverer of radium. The book will be published some time during the fall.

Ann Dare, who is now at Laguna Beach, contemplates a month's visit here, beginning September 10. She will be accompanied by Miss Brocklesby Davis, who among other interesting things headed two of her own treasure hunt expeditions on the Island of Cocos, off the coast of Panama. Ann Dare has just fitted out a little theater at Laguna beach, where she put on a series of Spanish dances. She has an offer to remain all winter as director and producer.

As a testimonial to Mary Austin, Mrs. Louis Mulgardt gave a supper party last Saturday evening at her home on Ocean Avenue. The occasion was delightfully informal. Frederick MacMurray contributed several viola solos and Dora Fernanda sang in her rich, colorful voice many gems from Brahms, Dorothy Canfield and other composers. Mrs. Austin spoke most interestingly of the old times of Carmel and the community spirit and gave a broad, womanly philosophy of life and ideals. Many guests came in for the latter part of the evening and when the time came for dispersing everybody felt that they had enjoyed another of the old delightful Carmel "Get-to-gethers."

Miss Tilly Polak is spending a few days in San Francisco, combining business with pleasure. She expects to return by the end of the week.

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in front of the city hall there will be a demonstration of the Newbegin fire extinguisher. The public is invited. The city trustees are sponsoring this affair with the idea that perhaps the equipment may be a valuable addition to the city's fire fighting apparatus.

Dobson Recital Gave Distinctive Dances

One of the most delightful events of the past week was the dance recital by the pupils of Charlotte Anne Dobson at Arts and Crafts Hall, Friday evening last. No more charming or colorful entertainment has it been the good fortune of the dance enthusiasts of Carmel to witness in many months. Miss Dobson has achieved a very evident success with her summer school of interpretive dancing and intensive technical training, during the three months her school has been in session.

Virginia Burton's visualization of a Nautch Dance was distinctive and arresting. The atmosphere she created vibrated personality and understanding of her subject, and was presented with all the grace and finish of a professional dancer. The French Ballet by six pretty little girls was especially refreshing. The charm of childhood expressing its soul by means of the dance was exquisite to behold. The Spear Dance, Greek Plastique and Hungarian numbers were executed and appreciably received. The dramatic interpretation of a Turkish situation by Christine and Virginia Burton and Hildreth Taylor was an unusual and most effective performance.

After witnessing the toe dance executed by Miss Dobson herself, and the two interpretations with which she closed the program, we can easily understand and appreciate the magnitude of her art, and the perfection of her method of instruction.

Exposition Essex Gives Radio Music

The Exposition Essex from Monterey spent some time last week in various cities of the county, giving a radio concert of Del Monte music and news of the coming Exposition of Industries and Arts. Mayor Daugherty of Monterey invited the listeners to attend the Exposition and stated that the management had provided a big entertainment program, including a fine California Art Exhibit, Spanish Day Fete with queen and maids-of-honor which are to be chosen by popular vote. There is also to be a feast of lanterns with 600 illuminated fishing boats in the harbor. Japanese diving and other sports will be furnished.

Sales Continue Brisk in Carmel Woods

Two houses are nearing completion in Carmel Woods and construction of a third is about to begin. Sale of lots continues briskly with every indication that the Del Monte Properties Company's beautiful subdivision will be sold out in record-breaking time.

Sales are being made not only to Carmelites but also to residents in other sections of California who are drawn to this region by its climatic no less than by its cultural attractions.

Announcement that prices of all lots remaining unsold will be advanced on the first of October has stimulated buying. The announcement has focussed attention on the unusual attractiveness of the present prices.

THE HOUSE BY THE SEA

O sea forgive me, that I built my house
Where I might gaze on thee.
Better had I sought some temple, in thy rocks,
My place of prayer to be.
O Mighty Deep! That were enough for me!
Dreaming, Old Ocean, that my soul,
By thee were shapeable,
I built, and tho' thy tides shall break my heart,
I mar thy beauty, with her love—alien—incapable.
Afar, afar, from thee, tho' on thy shores
O sea forgive!

The Carmel tax rate for the fiscal year 1923 has been fixed at $1 on each $100 valuation. The assessed valuation of property, outside municipality is over one million dollars

One evidence of Carmel's material growth and increased population is the selection of this city for a branch of the United Cigar Stores. It is located in the Palace Drug store.

According to contractor Sydney Ruthven, work on the Ocean avenue improvement is to begin tomorrow. Workmen and equipment will be brought over the hill and the job put through speedily.

The local public school, with four teachers, opened with a large attendance Monday morning. Many kiddies enrolled for the first time in any school. The new building, erected during vacation, was occupied.

Last week William Deems of San Mateo gave a dinner party in honor of Ira Remsen's 'nth birthday. Among those present were Miss Geane Hanson, Miss Janie Johnson, Mrs. Hilda Argo, Archie James, Ralph Todd, George Hooper.

Mah Jongg, the Chinese game is quite the vogue in Carmel nowadays. There has recently been printed by the Pine Cone Press a book of instructions and scoring. The work is published and copyrighted by Mrs. Clara Smith Lawler.

Boxing promoter Elmer Emlay has prepared a fine card for his next show at the Monterey auditorium, Monday night, September 4. Several of the scrappers who were in the ring at the last show have been signed up again, so that a snappy bill is in store for the boxing fans.

A certificate of partnership has been filed with the county clerk by E. R. Nash and Frank Nash, certifying that they are doing business under the fictitious firm name of the "Monterey Electric Shop," Monterey, and co-partners and sole owners of said business. This was formerly the Hoggle Electric Works.

S. M. Marks and wife, who have been spending this month in Carmel, were called to the city this last week owing to the death of Harrison Weinstock, Mr. Marks' brother-in-law. They returned Saturday but closed up their cottage and left again immediately. Mr. Marks is secretary of the East Bay Water Co.

The local branch of the California Home Investment Association is fully organized and ready for business. H. Spoehr is the president, Calvin C. Hogle, the vice-president, and Ray De Yoe the secretary. The stock is still open for those who wish to subscribe. The money of the association will be loaned for building purposes only.

Recently Mrs. C. Halstead Yates entertained P. A. B. Widener of Elkins Park, Philadelphia, who with Mrs. Widener and Mrs. Albert Pancoast and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whiteney of New York have been touring California in Mrs. Widener's private car. Mr. and Mrs. Widener have probably the largest kennel of the police dogs in this country and Mr. Widener judged at a Southern show while here.
